

those who would like to move to an area could challenge an ordinance which denies them access to the area on the ground, for example, that the four-acre zoning is somehow exclusionary in violation of their constitutional right. And we have attempted to deal with this in Article 9.

I think, in view of the shortness of the time, what I will do with Article 9 is do this explanation which I have just given you and call your attention to the restrictions on standing and on time during which one may attack, and then ask all of you who have comments on Article 9 to submit them to us in writing and we will come back next year.

MR. BOSKEY (D. C.): Mr. Director, before the magic hour of 5:00 o'clock arrives, I should like to move that Articles 7 and 8, Tentative Draft Number 3, be deemed to be tentatively approved by the Institute subject to the changes indicated in our discussion today, and subject to the usual editorial license.

DIRECTOR WECHSLER: Thank you. Is there a second?

(Motion was seconded by Mr. Wright of Texas.)

DIRECTOR WECHSLER: All those in favor of the motion please say Aye. Opposed. We have tentative approval of Articles 7 and 8 as revised in the discussion.

The hour is now, I think, so close that nothing more can be accomplished today. I thank you for your attendance and remind you that tomorrow morning we start working on the Uniform Commercial Code.

(Whereupon the meeting recessed at 5:00 o'clock p.m.)
